Forecast for Friday 10 Jun 2022

Weather: Clear spells and isolated showers during the early hours. Sunny periods during the morning with isolated mainly light showers developing late morning onwards, however many places will remain dry, and becoming dry generally in the evening. Increasingly windy during the afternoon, with a risk of gales developing over exposed ridges and summits.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 90%, but 60% during the early hours and again mid-evening onwards.

Low Cloud and visibility: Occasional patches of cloud on slopes above 400-500m during the early hours and again mid evening onwards. Otherwise cloud largely clear of the summits, but briefly lowering to around 700m in any showers. Visibility beneath cloud generally excellent, with only brief deteriorations to moderate in any showers.
